ABOUT THIS

— AND — ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

HIGHLY VALUED.—One of my most prized possessions is from a minister. He's of my native South. That makes it even more valuable. He did not like something in one of my columns published in his part of Georgia. He didn't like it a bit. That he positively didn't like it you may grasp from this tidbit: "The only reason I do not compare you to the belly of a rattlesnake is because it would be an offense to the rattler." Yes, after thinking over this, I have come to the conclusion that the gentleman disagrees with what I write.

PROFITABLE.—I have other prized possessions. There's not a complimentary note in them. They have been saved over a long period—about 2,000 of them. Why do I call them valued possessions? If criticism is "valued possession," what is the friendly kind? Let me tell you. Those delightful compliments which occasionally come are appreciated. Genuinely so. But the critical letter makes me take me apart and see what's wrong; critical letters compel self-analysis. And they have, therefore, greater influence upon me than the friendliest expression, although the latter always happily warms my heart.

AS OTHERS SEE US.—Wasn't it the gifted Robert Burns who poetically prayed that we might have sight to see ourselves as others see us? He was smart. That's why his works rank high in the world of literature. Why millions have extracted great joy from his poems. To see ourselves as others see us may not be, at times (most times, perhaps), complimentary, but if we use others' thoughts and interpretations about us, we may find out what's wrong with us and at least keep from getting worse. And that has some value. Now, really, doesn't it?

FEAR.—One of the reasons some of us fail to look at ourselves through the eyes of others is that we are afraid to see what we may see. I think, in this connection, of the ladies, bless 'em. Wherever they are, it is a usual thing to see the mirror come out, perhaps a quick look-see, and on goes some of that—well, it's nice, and I think the ladies are not afraid to see themselves, at least their facial make-up, as others see them. Then they fix it. But most of us, humanly desiring the approbation of our fellows, prefer to imagine admiration rather than risk information that would send us into a huddle with ourselves to find out "what's the matter." And we don't fix it.

FARMERS KNOW BETTER.—I was raised on a farm, worked on a farm, with none of the modern conveniences. I followed Old Dobbin in the furrows, only sometimes it was a stubborn mule, or even a worn-out old oxen. We had to buy them cheap. I learned what remains true—farmers want to know. If something is wrong, he wants to know WHAT HE DID WRONG. That way farmers grow good crops, raise good cattle, are prosperous. We can learn much about what is called introspection from the farmers of the land.

UNPOPULARITY.—Writing to avoid unpopularity marks one as a mental defective. Writing is to cause thinking, to stimulate good mental habit. Constructive criticism is welcomed by every good writer of my acquaintance. Differences of opinion, however expressed, are highly beneficial to the tribe of scribes. They are more helpful than bouquets.

Firemen Place High In Water Carnival

When it comes to battling a ball around with water from their hoses, Orland Park firemen are good. In fact, last week Orland's fire fighters proved their worth in a tournament at Riverdale.

The occasion was the Riverdale fire department water carnival "water fight." The contest started Thursday night and continued with eliminations until Saturday night, when the Orlanders took second place in the finals. The contest involved keeping a large ball suspended in air and, in addition, keeping it in their opponents' field.

Private Secretary At A. B. Company

Grace Roberta Dewar, 19, of 15710 S. Lamon avenue, Oak Forest, mysteriously lost her life last Saturday evening about 6 o'clock at the Oak Forest Rock Island station.

An inquest held at Hickey's Funeral parlors, Oak Forest, failed to develop any clues leading to the cause of death. State police were called into the case, but it is reported that nothing like tangible evidence has been discovered.

Miss Dewar, daughter of Charles M. Dewar of the same address, was returning from a shopping trip to Blue Island at the time of her death. All that is definitely known is that Miss Dewar had gone to the platform to alight from the train, and it developed that no one else was known to be on the platform with her, although this has not been substantiated. Surmises have led to the conclusion that the victim of the accident either was pushed or fell or jumped from the train, falling to her death. Police so far have been unable to throw any light on the subject.

Miss Dewar was a private secretary employed by the American Broadcasting company, and investigation has disclosed that she was of a happy nature, and that no cause existed for deliberately seeking death. The theory that she slipped and fell or in her haste jumped has been accepted as the likely explanation of her death. The verdict at the inquest was that death resulted accidentally.

The body was taken to Kingsbury, Ind., for interment.

Nick Heiman, Jr. Makes Some Gains

Nick Heiman, Jr., of Mokena, who was critically hurt two weeks ago when struck by a passing motorist while riding to work on his motorcycle, has had several blood transfusions. His condition has improved, although he has not yet passed the crisis.

The injured man's leg was put into a cast, but he has been kept on boards because of apparent spine injury. He has overcome the effects of concussion, it is reported. X-ray examinations this week are expected to reveal the extent of injuries to the spine.

Mr. Heiman's condition became so bad last Saturday, the family was summoned to the hospital.

A. R. KERCHEVAL DIES AT 83

Albert R. Kercheval, 83-year-old director of the New Lenox State bank, died yesterday at his home in New Lenox township following an illness of several months.

A lifetime resident of New Lenox township, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Kercheval, one of the first couples to settle in Will county.

Mr. Kercheval was a former highway commissioner and had been director of the New Lenox bank for a number of years. He had farmed in that

Phi Delta Kappa Elects Mr. Rogers

When school ended and Orland's school superintendent, J. G. Rogers, and his family, were planning to leave for Boulder, Colo., where he is taking studies leading to his doctorate degree, the Editor asked the educator to write about his trip and tell what they are doing. This week we received the following letter from the Orland educator. That he is busy is easily seen.

Mr. Rogers' letter:
"Vetsville Quonset No. 119
Boulder, Colorado
7-24-47

"We had a good trip out. Our biggest problem has been housing. We are now very comfortable in a quonset.

"The first five weeks' term has just ended. I am happy over my grades of one A and one B as any high school pupil.

"One of the courses was 'Public School Finance' and the other was 'New Trends in Elementary Education.' I am finding the work both practical and inspiring. I feel sure that the Orland schools will benefit from the studies I am working on.

"We are leading a busy life as usual. I go to the campus when the library opens at 7:15 and stay there for classes, study, and lectures until 5 o'clock. I usually study from two to three hours in the evening. While here I have been on three panel discussions, have given five oral class reports, have taken part in one debate, and have prepared two term papers, besides the usual class routine.

"It sounds like all work, but in between I have found time for some tennis with a school man from Idaho, a number of picnics, a little mountain climbing, a Fourth of July celebration, two good Arabian horse shows, church, two trips to Denver, one to Estes Park, two movies, a few lectures, one band concert, a birthday party for Nancy, and one for myself.

"I have received the honor this summer of being elected to membership in Phi Delta Kappa, a professional education fraternity.

"Nancy and Sue have been quite well, and are enjoying their summer, although they occasionally wish they could fly back to Orland Park for a day or two. Nancy attended one of the several art classes put on at the Boulder high school by the Art Institute of Denver, an hour a day for about three weeks. She was quite thrilled when one of her pictures was chosen to be exhibited in the Art Museum at Denver.

"Sue attended the recreation program at one of the schools two hours a day for about three weeks. They enjoy the mountains, the irrigation ditches, and the horses at Boulder.

"Mrs. Rodgers is busy keeping us fed and taken care of."

FARM BUREAU DAY

Farm Bureau day at the Illinois state fair will be August 15. Officers and members of the Illinois Agricultural association board of directors will be on hand to greet Farm Bureau people at the Illinois Agricultural association tent where free checking, lunch tables, and water will be provided.

The purpose of the meeting, Mr. Heiman stated, is to arrive at a decision on the purchase of a plot of ground "ideally situated" for recreational purposes, he said.

NEW LENOX VILLAGE GOVERNMENT SEEKS COMMUNITY WELFARE

Men who operate village governments must make a living for themselves and their families, since it is self-evident, no village could afford the cost of paying sufficiently large salaries to maintain its officials, and there is not work enough to keep officials busy all the time.

Necessarily these men work for their fellow citizens because of devotion to public interest. No other motive could exist to cause men to go home from jobs and then go out night after night on village government business.

The editor of The Semmler News-papers—The News-Bulletin, The Orland Park Herald, The Tinley Park Times—was impressed with the serious attitude of these village officials of New Lenox. He was impressed because the men who direct the destinies of the village are, like the rest of us, busy people; yet they devote late hours at night, often to public business.

These men, whose names have been held over in these articles by the very nature of the articles, are Village Trustees E. M. Merfeld, and Public Health, Safety Director Amos Bruns, Commissioner of Public Works and Property George Marshall. Robert McCleary is village clerk and Stephen F. Sergeant is village treasurer.

Walter Baers is accounts and finance commissioner, Sheldon Hauck heads streets and roads.

The vacancy caused by the death of Leonard Rought has not been filled.

The village's chief executive is, of course, J. Carlton Cole.

Other aspects of New Lenox village government will appear in the News-Bulletin at an early date.

For many years, Mrs. Skoien was active in the Volunteers of America and she had served with the Salvation Army for 20 years.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Arvid Johnson of Morris; seven sons, Russell, Daniel, Henry and Laverne of Joliet, and the Rev. John, the Rev. Leslie and Harold of Tulsa; 16 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

The body was removed to the Carlson funeral home where funeral services will be Thursday at 1:30 p. m., the Rev. J. W. Brown of Canton, Ill., and the Rev. C. B. Arnes officiating. Burial will be in Maplewood cemetery, New Lenox.

N. E. WILL COUNTY Softball LEAGUE

The Robins met two strong teams last week and it proved just that, with the Robins dropping two practice games. Last Tuesday evening, they met the Rock Island Rockets from Chicago. Brilliant pitching and fielding by the Rocket team netted them the victory, 18 to 0. Only one hit was allowed to our Robins and that one went to "Bob" Clark, Robins first baseman, who doubled, only to drop a 20 to 5 decision to left center in the eighth inning.

Friday the 25th wasn't their night the Speed Boys of Joliet.

This Friday, August 1, the Joliet Moose will invade Mokena for a practice game. Tuesday, August 5, Mokena plays its sixth league game at Mokena, with Matteson furnishing the opposition.

WILL COUNTY VOLLEY BALL TEAM ORGANIZED

The sports committee of the Will county Farm Bureau met July 24 in the Farm Bureau building with volleyball enthusiasts to form the nucleus of a team to represent Will county at the sports festival to be held at the University of Illinois on August 28, 29.

Dick McHugh of Manhattan was elected manager and Charles Sweedler, also of Manhattan, was elected assistant manager.

All Farm Bureau members interested in playing on this team should contact either the manager or assistant manager. They hope that a good many players will be interested in this team and will make an effort to attend practices each Tuesday night at 8 p. m., at the Joliet Y.M.C.A.

Joliet High Gets New Superintendent

High S. Bonar of Oak Park, superintendent of schools at Manitowoc, Wis., for 16 years, and a member of the teaching profession for more than a quarter of a century, unanimously was named superintendent of the Joliet Township high school and Junior college yesterday, at a salary of $9,500.

The appointment was made at a session of the board. Mr. Bonar was present at the meeting and when asked if he could begin his duties Monday, he answered, "I'll be on hand tomorrow to begin learning about the school."

He will succeed Donald M. Sharpe, who served as head of the school for the past year. He resigned last month due to ill health.

California Farmers To Visit Will County

A group of 20 California Farm Bureau leaders will arrive in Chicago Thursday, August 14, for a three-day study of Illinois County Farm bureaus and the parent organization, the Illinois Agricultural association. They will visit Will county Farm Bureau organization, Joliet, Saturday, August 16.

The Californians will be in DeKalb August 14 to look over the DeKalb county Farm Bureau organization. On Friday, August 15, they will be in Chicago to study the Illinois Agricultural association organization and its 16 affiliated companies.

A Notable Chalk Deposit

Chalk is a soft white rock of the earth. A notable deposit of it is a ledge that can be followed from Austin, Texas, southwestward into Mexico for a distance of 600 miles. It averages about 600 feet in thickness.

Drastic Measures Asked by Citizens

Rabies-infected dogs and loose-running dogs are reported from Tinley Park and Orland Park, and frequent complaints are heard around Mokena, Frankfort, and New Lenox.

Recently a five-year-old Tinley Park girl was bitten by a dog infected with rabies.

In Orland Park Monday night complaints were received by the board of village trustees that dangerous dogs threatened the safety of citizens and some women were afraid to venture outdoors after dark.

In Tinley Park, the situation reached the point where an irate woman declared, when Chief of Police C. A. Steinhagen shot a mad dog, proved by Cook county health department to have rabies, that "if that was my dog I would shoot him," the chief later reported.

The bitten girl was little Sharon Mae Jochum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Jochum, Tinley. Mrs. Jochum told The Semmler Newspapers that although rabies warnings have been posted for some time, "the dogs can't read; but what about the owners of these dogs?" Then Mrs. Jochum described the agonies inflicted upon the little tot, "having seven shots—one each day—shot into her tummy" and seven more shots into her back. "Then, she said, 'You mothers of children know what this means—the fearfulness, the pain to a small child; and, in addition, the reaction of these injections of rabid vaccine.'"

Little Sharon Mae was on her own home lawn when she was attacked by the dog, which knocked her down and bit her in the ear.

While officials in all the communities are reluctant to enforce too rigidly the law on free-running dogs, it is said that unless owners curb their dogs it may be necessary to adopt stringent action, since, one village said, "it is not our intention to permit our citizens, and especially helpless children, to be mangled by dogs."

In most communities there are ordinances prohibiting dogs being at large except on leash, and in Orland Park, Mayor W. R. Schussler stated that the village board, disturbed by the complaints and the dangers, may be compelled to enforce the ordinance, which, in effect, means that if a dog is found at large it belongs to the village, and becomes a dead dog.

Chief Steinhagen reported this week that Monday morning another person called him on the telephone and told him, "If you shoot my dog, that will be the last."

Officials, it is said, will not be intimidated; dogs will be shot when necessary to protect citizens. And, one added, "There's a place, you know, for persons who threaten public officials and interfere with them in the performance of their duties."

"Sprained" Foot? No; Broken Bone

What he thought was merely a sprained foot turned out to be a broken bone, H. W. Klotz of Orland Park recently found. At first Mr. Klotz thought that a twist of the foot had caused only a sprained muscle. After walking about on it for some time, with increasing difficulty, it was found that he had broken a bone. Result: crutches; but he's getting about just the same.

Rooms for Teachers Asked in Orland

E. J. Oranger, secretary of Orland board of education, on behalf of the board, has appealed to Orlanders to open their homes to teachers. "If teachers do not have places to live, teachers will not come to Orland Park," Mr. Oranger said, continuing, "if teachers do not come to teach our children, what will we do?"

The board is hopeful that a number of people will take in the high-type teachers the board employs. The board has maintained a high standard, and the public is assured that any teacher given room in a private home will be a credit to the home. And the children must have teachers.

Street Work, $7000

With completion of street work in Orland Park, information was made available on the cost of the work following the monthly meeting of the village board of trustees last Monday night.

The total cost of the work has been placed at $7,000. However, the village authorities, according to Village President Schussler, expects to recover about $4,000 from the state motor fuel tax, which has been accumulating for several years.

Nearly two miles of road work was completed, it was stated.

BISON'S 'FAMILY TREE' . . . First comprehensive study of the Great Plains bison's lineage is being made by University of Nebraska state museum from its collection of buffalo skeletal remains. The large skull and horns (foreground) are 500,000 years old and belong to the first type of bison to roam the Great Plains area. The skull at left is 50,000 years old while the one at right is a 1,000-year-old buffalo, nearly the same as the present type seen in parks and zoos. Dr. C. B. Schultz, director of the museum, is on the left, with W. D. Frankforter, assistant curator of paleontology, at right.

Museum Traces 'Family Tree' Of Shaggy-Haired Plains Bison

WNU Features.

LINCOLN, NEB.—The "family tree" of the Great Plains bison is being given its first geologically scientific appraisal by the University of Nebraska state museum. Research completed in the past eight years reveals that ancestors of the shaggy-haired creatures, which in the 19th century numbered millions and drew hunters from over the world to the plains of Kansas and Nebraska, first came to North America about 500,000 years ago. That was when the second of the three big glaciers of the Ice Age was retreating from the northern Great Plains.

Dr. C. B. Schultz, museum director, and W. D. Frankforter, assistant curator of paleontology of the museum, report that their studies thus far indicate two unusual tendencies in evolution of the bison.

First, the great granddaddy of them all who came to this continent from Asia was characterized mainly by huge horns which averaged 80 inches from tip to tip. But the body of this creature, known scientifically as "superbison," was less than a foot taller and a foot longer than the present buffalo. Succeeding generations showed only one significant change: size of the horns. They steadily shrank to today's average of 22 inches from tip to tip. The body remained nearly the same.

Second, the bison, unlike other prehistoric animals found in North America such as elephants, rhinos, horses and camels, first appeared on our continent as a large animal and decreased in size.

The University of Nebraska scientists also believe, on the basis of present studies, that the bison population has had its "ups and downs." The first bison, they say, apparently was relatively few in numbers since only a few scattered skeletal remains have been found thus far in Kansas and Nebraska.

But they increased in numbers rapidly as the climate began warming up, and more food was made available to the growing herds. But about 20,000 years ago a human civilization, apparently a race of hunters, migrated from Asia to this continent, and the numbers of bison were greatly reduced. These tribes, however, suddenly disappeared from the Great Plains for reasons which are still a mystery to scientists. After their disappearance, however, bison herds staged a comeback.

The herds gained steadily in size, even after appearance of the early Indians in the Great Plains region. But with the coming of the white man, the bison all but disappeared from the continent.

The research work now under way at University of Nebraska is expected to take at least five more years to complete.

Woman of 75 Finds New Career in Art

CLARISSA, MINN. — Her duties as a wife and mother kept her occupied for most of her 75 years but now Mrs. Mabel Radabaugh has a new career as an artist.

While visiting a son in Portland, Ore., four years ago, Mrs. Radabaugh attended art classes sponsored by the city. Her interest centered on the painting of pastel floral prints, which are created by working a chalk-like substance into a mat or canvas.

Now Mrs. Radabaugh has a "workshop" in her home here.

Cook Stove of 1876 Still Is in Use

ZUMBROTA, MINN. — Another remnant of the "good old days" still is in use here. The cook stove which her parents purchased when they began housekeeping here in 1876 still is being used by Miss Secellie Howe. Furthermore, the original stovepipe, which has a right angle elbow instead of the curved elbow of today, also is still in service.

The stove has no grates. Wood is placed on ridges built into a flat piece of iron. There is a draft in the front of the stove and in the hearth, which has a door for removal of ashes.

The stove has had no repairs in its 71 years of service although hooks were welded on the stove lids to permit easier lifting.

Miss Howe's father brought his wife to Zumbrota from Norway in April, 1876, as a bride.

Communism May Fade Out

THE last of the great absolute monarchies was that of the czars. Even in Russia the demand of the illiterate mass for some semblance of a free government had forced Nicholas to establish the duma. It was not much, it had but little, if any, authority, but it was a signboard pointing the road to free government.

It was the dictatorship of the czars, plus the defeat of the Russian armies in World War I, that offered the opportunity for the Kerensky social revolution. But the masses were not prepared for the self government that revolution offered. The Marxian communistic dictatorship under the reasonably benevolent Lenin, and then the more definite, not so communistic real dictatorship of Stalin, was the final result.

Today the Russian iron curtain prevents those outside from knowing what is happening behind that curtain, or those inside from knowing conditions outside the darkness that envelops them.

Can that condition be permanent? History would answer "no." It can last only so long as a small minority, represented and supported by one man, controls the army. That minority control, the Communist party, represents less than 4 per cent of the Russian population. Now the one man, Stalin, controls the party, and with it the army. With Stalin is the politburo of 13 men, of which Stalin is the leader.

STALIN'S SUCCESSOR

Stalin is nearing the end of his allotted span of life. Is there another to follow who is strong enough to control that minority? I do not know. There was a time when Stalin's dictatorship was menaced by some of the army leaders. That threatened revolt was squelched by a ruthless hand, but there might be another.

Such evidence as seeps out from behind that iron curtain would indicate a slowly, but steadily, growing demand on the part of the Russian masses for relief from the dictatorship. While Stalin lives that demand will be unrecognized. What the future will be after he passes will depend upon the strength of the Russian people, the masses, plus, at least, a considerable portion of the rank and file of the Red army, as opposed to the strength of some one of the 13 men then composing the politburo. What the result will be is any one's guess.

The Russian masses, including a large portion of the rank and file of the Red army, do not want another war; they do not want more territory; they do not want to dominate world ideologies; they do not want the growing class distinctions the Stalin system has created. They do want more of the pleasures of living; they want individual freedom, of which they have caught a glimpse through that iron curtain. They do not want war, or the task of preparing for war. Instead they want consumer goods.

Only time can give the world an answer to the Russian problem. In the meantime we must be prepared, not for the inevitable, but for the possible. Stalin's passing might solve the greatest of the world's problems, or it might not change present conditions. Personally I lean a bit to the optimistic side.

Free School Lunches

IN the depression days of 1937 the government by executive order began a small, and what was supposed to be temporary, benevolence. A portion of the surplus food the government was buying and destroying, as a means of helping to maintain farm prices, was diverted into lunches for school children. The lunches were to be paid for by those children whose parents could afford the price, and to be served free to those children whose parents could not pay. Government dollars were to be matched by the states, the communities or charitably inclined individuals or organizations.

In 10 years that small, and supposedly temporary, benevolence has grown into big business. For its operation the agricultural department asked 75 million dollars for the next fiscal year—a time when the world has a shortage, not a surplus, of food, and every one in America is supposed to have a dangerous amount of money.

The country doctor goes when and where his services are needed under any conditions. His small fee is paid if and when it is convenient. Many a city doctor will go to the aid of an ailing human if his large fee is acceptable, and after arrangements for its prompt payment have been made. It is the methods used by many of the city doctors that have created much of the urge for socialized medicine. In the cities medical skill, in many cases, has become commercialized, causing a demand for socialization.

Conservation Pays Big Cash Dividends

Save the Soil Methods At Purdue Prove Ideal

A soil conservation system combining the teamwork of large amounts of fertilizer, contour farming, manure and deep rooted legumes, not only saves sorely needed rainfall and reduces the loss of soil, organic matter and plant food through runoff, but also promotes greatly increased yields of corn, wheat and hay, according to Glenn Bedell.

Such a system proved its benefits at the Purdue station. The test was conducted in 12 small fields from 1942 through 1945. All the fields had three-year rotation: corn, wheat and meadow. Six, however, were farmed with common practices; the other six with a conservation system.

On the fields which had the benefit of extra fertilizer, contour cropping, manure, lime and deep rooted legumes, the water loss from runoff for four years was eight inches, compared with 17½ on fields farmed under the common system. Soil loss was only 1.8 tons under conservation against 8.8 tons with the common system. Organic matter losses were 492 and 976 pounds, respectively, while those of nitrogen were 16 and 77 pounds; phosphorus 19 and 62; and potash, 10 and 24 pounds.

Corn yields averaged 92 bushels per acre against 62 bushels on the common fields, in 1942. By 1945 the corn output reached 122 bushels per acre, compared with 71 bushels on the common fields. Wheat yields averaged 25 bushels and 15 bushels.

The application of hormones as an aid in fattening poultry has been carried on for some time. The hormones tried have had the effect of "tenderizing" the flesh of poultry.

Dr. A. V. Nalbandov, University of Illinois, demonstrates success of hormone experiments to Lee Campbell and Ralph Inhoff, officials of Illinois Poultry Improvement association.

The use of prolactin hormones to transform roosters into setting hens has been successfully accomplished at University of Illinois.

Make Cheddar Cheese From Pasteurized Milk

A new method of making American cheddar cheese greatly simplifies the whole operation and enables the average cheesemaker to produce a uniform and high-quality product regularly. The new method uses pasteurized milk, destroyed of undesirable bacteria, to which an active and dependable starter containing only the essential bacteria has been added, and acid and time control.

Glacier Striped With Bands Containing Grasshoppers

Millions of grasshoppers fill Grasshopper Glacier, near Cook, Mont. Swarms of insects were carried by the wind to a great height. Frigid breezes over the glacier cooled the insects and they fell into the pit. Snows covered the grasshoppers. Other swarms met the same fate.

In time the glacier became striped with black bands of frozen insects, some of them 60 feet deep, and the dark stripes may still be seen there today.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Put newspapers under grass or fiber rugs to prevent dirt from seeping through. On cleaning day remove the newspapers which have caught the dirt.

As you empty fruit jars, wash and thoroughly dry them, then place the lid on to prevent chipping.

Coarsely woven or braided, brilliantly colored table mats in clear ruby red, emerald green, cerise or chartreuse will be a smart vogue for summer tables. Simple china and clear glassware are especially effective with these mats.

After powder puffs have served their purpose, wash them thoroughly and keep them near the sink or stove. These can be used as pads for scouring powder.

No Time Like Present, So Anniversary Date Is Set Up

An acquaintance of Mrs. B. congratulated the old lady on her golden wedding anniversary. "Guess you read in the paper," Mrs. B. replied, "about the party and all the presents we got."

Then she chuckled. "It wasn't really our 50th anniversary. Only our 49th. But Pa's getting pretty feeble and I'm not too spry myself, so we decided we'd better have our celebration while the getting was good."

If hands are lightly dusted with talcum powder before doing fine sewing, knitting, crocheting during hot weather it will eliminate stickiness of hands.

Greasy containers can be easily cleaned by rubbing with dry cornmeal.

Keep washing machine cords out of water, even though they are waterproof cords.

Soap and water won't harm furniture; not if you wring a soft cloth out of warm suds and wash furniture with it. When furniture is wiped dry, polish with a good furniture polish.

Rufe's Ramblings

By Rufe Pickett

T'other day I made a trip as head brakeman on freight. We took the caboose and went around to the big stone quarry after a train and on the way back we did some switching at the "Y." This last few moves was a little complicated for me but I finally got the cars all spotted, coupled the engine onto the train, and we were off.
When we were rolling along down the holler the engineer sez to me, "When did they build the railroad over on this side of the river?" And I sez, "Really I don't have the slightest idea. This is the first trip I ever made as a brakeman." Just t'other day, as they say down home when speaking of past tense.

Now it may be that some of the readers of this Rambling may be locomotive engineers. If so I don't want them to think that I am casting any slur on a fellow worker. The point I want to bring out is that I was equally to blame for the dilemma in which we found ourselves. It was I who threw the wrong switches and brought the engine out on the wrong leg of the "Y" and it was WE who left town with the engine backing up instead of going ahead.

NO ROOF BUT HEAVEN . . . Kneeling worshippers fill the roofless ruins of St. George's Catholic cathedral in Southwark, England, during the pontifical high mass marking the coming of age of the diocese of the Knights of Columbus. This is one of Great Britain's many churches which were heavily damaged by German bombs and rocket shells which rained destruction on the London area during the war.

'GRINNING GUNMAN' CAPTURED . . . William L. Kaiser (right), disgruntled former capitol policeman, was identified by Sen. John W. Bricker (Rep., O.) as the "grinning gunman" who fired two shots at him in the senate subway. Kaiser was apprehended two hours after the attempted assassination, and Bricker confronted him in the office of Senate Sergeant-at-Arms Edward McGinnis (left).

ROYAL BETROTHAL . . . Princess Elizabeth of England appears radiantly happy in this picture as she walks with her bridegroom-to-be, Lt. Philip Mountbatten, former prince of Greece, following the formal announcement of their engagement by King George VI. The princess wears the three-diamond engagement ring given her.

OH, THE SHAME OF IT . . . Given a choice by stern-fingered Patrolman Joseph H. Dries (right) as to whether he wanted to serve five days in the cooler or drive for one month with prominent "Traffic Violator" sticker on his windshield, Michael O'Donnell wept quietly into his hankie as he made his decision—and it wasn't the jail sentence. He was one of 99 Los Angeles traffic violators to whom officers posed the same question. All 99 chose the sticker.

OPERATION SNOWDROP REHEARSAL . . . Floating snowdrops, in the form of paratroopers of the famous 82nd airborne division, fill the sky in a rehearsal of paratroopers and air units for "operation snowdrop," cold weather maneuvers to be held this winter at Pine Camp, N. Y. The men are being dropped from Fairchild C-52 packet transports of the 316th troop carrier group. The 82nd and 316th were teamed up before—when they carried out operations in Sicily, Normandy and Holland.

BOUNDING OVER THE MAIN . . . No navigator is Skipper "Dod" Osborne who will attempt to cross the Atlantic ocean from London in the 13-ton "Lovely Lady." Equipped with nothing as efficient as modern maps and navigational instruments, the old salt expects to cover 10,000 miles and take at least five years for the entire journey. This is the second such venture for Osborne. He sailed from England to South America in 1936, also without proper maps or charts.

RECRUITER RECRUITED . . . For six months, John R. Banta Jr. (left), machinist's mate first class, staunchly did his duty recruiting for the navy in the San Pedro, Calif., federal building. But somewhere along the line he lost faith in his own sales talk and became easy prey for M/Sgt. Earl Love (right), who high-pressured him into resigning his navy rank to join the army as a technical sergeant. This, at least, is one example of how the services can be unified.

LAST SUPPER RE-ENACTED . . . Hollywood's world famous "Pilgrimage Play" opened its 20th season in its own amphitheater in the Hollywood hills, with the life and teachings of Jesus Christ as its theme. Biblical characters in this detailed re-enactment of the Last Supper are (left to right): Peter, Simon, Thaddeus, James (son of Alphaeus), James, John, Jesus of Nazareth (played by Nelson Leigh), Judas Iscariot, Andrew, Matthew, Bartholomew, Philip and Thomas.

WINNER BY A WINK . . . Ginny Soiset demonstrates how she turned on charm to influence judges who elected her queen of the three and four-year-olds in Pacific Palisades women's club juniors' baby show.

SAMARITAN . . . The Rev. Clarence Golla of St. Jude's church in Chicago, who happened to be driving by after John Collins was hurled from his car to the pavement, administers last rites after giving first aid.

Early Child Training

It takes more than instinct alone to help solve the difficulties of children and youth handicapped by distorted emotions. Studies made during the last 25 years show that early impressions and attitudes give children a particular "set" or "bent" to body, mind or character which is apt to persist into older years.

The Egg and You

An egg may be considered an oversized vitamin pill. The hen wraps up in this nutritional package vitamins A and D, and the B vitamins, thiamine and riboflavin. Eggs are a good source of the most valuable proteins (proteins vary in food value). They rate "excellent" as a source of iron and phosphorus.

Furniture Cleaning

Very dirty painted furniture can be cleaned with a mixture of solutions containing a cake of shaved laundry soap in a gallon of boiling water and two ounces of powdered glue in a quart of boiling water. Rinse the mixture off after a few minutes with clear water and wipe dry with a clean cloth.

Correct Frames

So many lovely pictures are spoiled because of their inappropriate framing. The frame usually should be as dark as the middle tone of the picture and should form a blending between the picture and the wall so that you are entirely unconscious of the frame when you gaze at the picture.

Zulu Custom

Work among Zulu tribes is strictly divided between men and women. The men cut and set the poles for houses but women weave the mat coverings; the men carve utensils from wood but women make clay pots.

First Letter

The letter "A" is not only the first letter of our alphabet, but, as the World Book encyclopedia states, it was the first letter of the first known alphabet. The alphabet used by the Sumerians in 1850 B.C. started with "A."

Lead Poisoning

Lead poisoning in cattle often is caused by not disposing of old paint buckets and cans, or allowing the cattle to have access to recently painted structures.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have been more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

TO LANE MERRIT there was more than the title of club golf champion at stake in today's match—very much more, indeed. There was, for instance, the need to wipe out this Donald Young's attempt to humiliate Lane the evening before, after the semi-finals, when he called across the club dining room: "How about a little bet on the match tomorrow, Merrit? Say, $5,000 or so?" It was a deliberate, and Lane thought, cheap try to embarrass him, for Young, and the others, knew Lane didn't have $5,000. Old Pop Weller, sitting with Lane, had glanced at him to see how he was taking it. He hesitated and then called to Young: "I'll take that $5,000 bet! And the 'so' can be anything you want to make it!" Lane had looked appealingly at Pop and pleaded: "Don't do it, Mr. Weller." But Pop snorted: "It's about time that show-off was taken down a peg or two." Under the circumstances there was nothing for Young to do but accept the bet, but Lane sensed he wasn't too keen about it.

And then, most important of all, there was Kay Cawley. Now, up to a few months before, to the Cawley and Merrit families and, naturally, Kay and Lane, the future was definitely settled for these two. Then Young entered the picture with his flashy man-of-the-world manners, clothes and swank car. And he proceeded to give Kay the rush of that young lady's life. Lane was hurt, but somehow it all seemed so right. Not that he blamed Kay. She was young, pretty, and bubbling with enthusiasm for life. She deserved adulation and also the good times that Lane, just making his start, was unable to provide. In fact, without his father's help, he would have had to relinquish his membership in the Midvale Country Club. At best it would be two or more years before he could rightly ask Kay to set the wedding date.

At breakfast Lane gave thought to his problems. He wanted to win for his own sake; he wanted to taste the sweetness of victory over that blow-hard, Young; he wanted to win for Pop Weller, fine sport, gentleman and friend that he was; and most of all, he wanted to win back Kay. Of course, winning a golf match wouldn't be enough for this last, but it might help.

Lane arrived at the club a good half hour before the time set for the start of the finals, and as he drove his modest coupe into the grounds he saw Young on the practice tee. "Mmmmm-m," he thought, "the guy can't be too confident."

As he made his way through the locker-room to his alley Lane was hailed from all sides with "good luck" wishes. Strangely, he felt none of the excitement which seemed to fill the room. He knew that, besides Pop Weller's large bet, much money had been wagered on the outcome of the match.

He dressed leisurely and he was lacing his shoes when Young entered, held out his hand and in a voice loud enough to carry, said: "Good luck, Merrit."

Lane promptly acknowledged and returned the wish in kind, but thought, "Still playing to the gallery."

There was quite a crowd at the first tee and for the first time Lane felt a bit squeamish in the stomach. On the tee itself he saw young Willie Hopper waiting with his clubs; young Willie, freckled-faced, snub-nosed and hardly a dandy in his well-worn denim pants and khaki shirt; Willie, loyal and capable at his job—the thought made Lane feel better. He caught a glimpse of Kay standing in the crowd well back of the tee. Lane waved, she smiled and waved back, in encouragement, he hoped.

He swung and hit, hard and clean.

They drove off, straight and far, with Young's ball stopping a few yards out in front. They halved the first hole in par figures and that's the way it went until the seventh when Lane rolled in a long, curling putt for a par to Young's bogie five, to go one up. Lane held that lead until the twelfth when Young birdied the short hole after his iron shot from the tee had stopped a scant foot from the cup. Lane went one up again at the seventeenth when Young's second found a deep trap off the green. And that's how the morning round ended.

Gallery and players trooped into the club dining room for lunch. The big room was noisy with the clatter of dishes and the chatter at the tables as shots of the round were talked over and replayed. Pop Weller sat with Lane. "You played fine golf, my boy, but I think, on one or two occasions, a little too safe. Don't let my bet disturb you, Lane. Win, lose or draw, the dickens with it. It doesn't mean a thing to me, except the satisfaction I'll get when I collect it from that phony."

At two the second round started.

Now, Midvale was no heart-breaking course. Tough enough and long enough, but an intelligent golf committee had pointed to make it interesting and suitable to the games of its members, rather than a test for top-flight pros. It did boast, however, one hole, the thirteenth, which would try the skill of the world's best. Many Midvale members had protested this hole, but the terrain was such that the committee could do little about changing it. Two hundred and fifty yards from the tee, just far enough to catch the duffer's second or third, the fairway ended and dropped abruptly into a gully about fifty feet deep. This gully, with excellent turf, stretched approximately a hundred yards along the bottom before the start of the rise back to the second section of fairway.

Arriving at the thirteenth, Lane still retained his one up lead of the morning round. He had played steady golf and two or three times he had fought off brilliant play by Young which threatened his slender lead. On the tee Lane debated the advisability of blasting for the gully or playing it safe. He decided on the latter, much to Willie Hopper's visible disapproval. Willie reluctantly handed over the requested spoon and ambled off toward the brink of the gully. Lane, hitting first, stepped to the tee; the murmuring of the gallery ceased. He swung and hit, hard and clean. The ball carried fairly straight as far as the two-hundred-yard marker and then hooked sharply downward and to the left. Two long bounces and it disappeared into the heavy rough.

Willie, on the other side of the fairway, groaned as he hurried across to locate the ball. A member of the gallery pointed deep in to a tiny white speck at the base of a small tree. Willie glanced hurriedly at the ball, his heart sinking, and took up his position nearby. It was a bad break and he was puzzled that the ball had bounded so deeply into the rough.

Meanwhile, Young's drive, a tremendous clout, had carried the first fairway and gained momentum as it hit the downhill roll of the gully, rolling almost to the very center. Lane went into the rough and glanced down at the ball Willie was guarding. It was partly buried, its markings completely hidden. It was almost an unplayable lie and Lane, berating himself for the error in playing safe, had about decided the best thing to do was to try to cut it out to the fairway.

Just then someone called: "Here's a ball, Lane. Looks like yours!" Jim Meredith, refereeing the match walked to the second ball. It was but a few feet in off the fairway, sitting up pretty as you please on a small tuft of grass, its markings clearly visible. Meredith ruled it was Lane's ball and Lane, with a quick glance at the perfect lie, selected his brassie and sent the ball sailing over the gully and well onto the second section of the fairway. It was a perfect shot.

As soon as Lane had hit Young walked up to Meredith. "I protest that ruling," he said. "How do you know that was the ball Merrit hit from the tee? It could have been dropped there. I insist on examining that other ball by the tree. I'm sure it's Merrit's ball because, from the tee, I watched it bounce into the rough toward that tree!" His face was white and set, his voice shaky as the import of his words suddenly dawned. "That's your privilege," Meredith answered. He went over to the tree and lifted the half buried ball, carrying it back to Young. "See," he said, "it's a Falcon, and you know the make ball Merrit is playing." With that he walked off.

Pop Weller, who had seen and heard, muttered to the man next to him. "There goes your ball game!" And the ball game went. Young dubbed his second completely, the ball missing the top of the gully and rolling back to rest half way up the slope. He stood watching the ball for a few seconds then, his nerves breaking, slamming the club heavily into the turf.

Yes, you've guessed it. Lane won the match. Best of all, Kay rushed onto the sixteenth green, where the match had ended, to congratulate Lane and—right smack in sight of that large audience—threw her arms around his neck and kissed him!

And—much to Pop Weller's delight—Young's $5,000 check bounced!

Our Responsibility in Influencing Family Life

LESSON TEXT FOR AUGUST 3—Proverbs 1:8, 9; 6:20-23; 17:6; 19:18; 22:6; 23:22-26.

MEMORY SELECTION—Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it.—Proverbs 22:6.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TRUTH must be translated into living, and there is no place where it can be more effective than in the home. We will want to make much of this lesson, for it is the only one during the entire year which deals directly with the home.

The book of Proverbs, to which we were introduced last Sunday, abounds in practical advice with a definitely spiritual emphasis, a combination at once wholesome and effective. This is the first of eight lessons making application of Proverbs to the problems of modern life.

Everyone in the home has a measure of responsibility for making the family life what it ought to be. No one from the small child to the great-grandmother is without influence, and each must contribute to the welfare of the home. Our lesson reaches from the young person to the grandfather rejoicing in his children's children. It begins quite properly with

I. Youth Looking to Parents (1:8, 9; 6:20-23; 23:22-26).

YOUNG people want to be well-dressed and properly groomed. They are interested in that which adorns and improves their appearance. It is right that they should have such concern. Let us remind them, however, that a young man or woman should not only be physically well-groomed, but spiritually attractive as well. If we should give as much thought to that side of our beings as we do to our bodies, there would be wonderful improvement in the life of the individual and in the home.

The child who is properly instructed, and who is responsive to that instruction, is prepared for life no matter where it may lead him (6:22). Wherever and whenever he needs guidance, night or day, it is with him. Even when he sleeps, he is in the hand of God for blessing.

Let no young man or woman be betrayed into that awful folly of our day which neglects the teaching of parents and of the church. Disaster is ahead on that road—sure disaster, and swift!

But now look at the other side of the matter, where we see

II. Parents Looking After Youth (19:18; 22:6).

THERE is a foolish idea current in our day which says that the way to rear children is to let them develop according to their own interests and instincts, without discipline or definite guidance.

The fruits of that kind of child training are now being harvested in the present crop of juvenile delinquents. We have the sad and awful proof before us that children cannot be reared that way.

We are not pleading for a return to the unduly restrictive measures of some of our forefathers; children are not helped by harshness or cruelty. But there is a proper place for definite instruction, for discipline, yes, even for chastening when that becomes necessary.

The larger part, and the most effective part, of this matter is the training of the child (22:6) and when properly done it brings forth the finest of results in later life. The boy who has been taught and directed right may get on a sidetrack for a time, but there is always the promise of a return to the right way.

This business of rearing children calls for the best any of us can put into it, and over and above that, all the grace and wisdom that God can and will give us.

We have reserved one verse for our final point, for here we find

III. Age and Youth Working Together (17:6).

OLD men need encouragement, and they receive it in no richer or more satisfying measure than in the delight they take in their children's children. Young people should remember that, and not fail to give to their grandparents, as well as their parents, the full measure of their interest and devotion.

But now note that "the glory of children are their fathers," yes, and grandfathers. How sad it is when a boy has to be ashamed of his father or one of his grandparents.

That puts on each one of us who has children a truly weighty responsibility. We must walk worthily before God, and before our children, even down to old age, when our grandchildren look to us for an example of godliness and gracious living. May God help us!

Electric Roaster Is Kitchen Handyman

A large chicken, vegetables and dessert may be cooked at once in a roaster. The lid of this model has a glass panel in the top. When roaster is being filled lid may be hooked into handle at end to be out of way.

Whether it's hot dogs, steaks or chops, they can be broiled to a turn in a roaster with a broiler attachment. Lid of this roaster has sliding-cover vents to control the air circulation for browning fowls, roast and broiling other meats.

AN ELECTRIC roaster is a "little range" in itself, according to the Rural Home Editor of nationally-circulated Capper's Farmer. In it, with the use of attachments, food may be steamed, roasted, baked, pan-broiled, boiled or fried.

"A whole meal may be prepared in a roaster," she writes in the magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families. "This might include a roast, vegetables and a hot dessert. Cakes, pies, rolls and bread may be baked the same as in a range oven. Or a large quantity of food such as baked beans to be served to a group may be prepared at one time. It is also useful for canning when using the boiling-water bath method."

"Since the roaster may be used on any ordinary electric outlet, but not with drop cords and extension cords, it is convenient to use in any home supplied with electricity. For the woman who generally cooks with coal or wood it is especially handy in summertime."

Sound construction is as important in the roaster as in a range. A strong body, heatproof handles, perfect-fitting joints, heavy plating and enameling, all indicate good construction. Insulation on sides and at bottom should be thick enough to retain heat as well as to protect surface on which roaster is placed.

A thermostatic control on a roaster makes it possible to hold temperature at point desired. A timer clock to start and stop cooking is an additional feature with some models.

geon home and on Friday, accompanied by their nieces Arleen and Dorothy Gudgeon, enjoyed an outing at Riverview park, Chicago.

Mrs. Hattie Wieber received word from her son, Corp. Norman L. Williams, that he has reenlisted for three years in the regular army and will be stationed somewhere on Hokkaido Island, Japan. He expects to get a furlough to spend Christmas holidays here with his mother and family and other relatives and friends.

Uncle Sam Says

You have heard people say, "why save at a time when prices are going up?" We cannot all be economists; and it is perhaps just as well, for they seem to differ a great deal among themselves about the future. But we all know this: A man who saved a dollar 10 years ago is better off today than the man who didn't; and other things being equal, the man who saves a dollar today will be better off in 1957 than the man who doesn't.

United States Savings Bonds offer you the opportunity to save at a profit. Thus every $3 you lay away now will come back to you in 1957 with an extra dollar in interest. You don't have to be an economist to know a good thing when you see it.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Jane Cupper's
"Daring" Bathing Suit

The Cuppers showed me some tin-types of their nineteen-ten vacation—picnicking on the beach with beer and pretzels, in bathing suits that made them look like they were dressed in street-wear.

Dee was smothered in a long-sleeved pull-over with knee length shorts, and looking embarrassed—as if he thought Jane's costume of a heavy blouse, two copious skirts, and long black stockings was a little daring.

We laughed a lot at those costumes... but come to think of it, as Dee says, we'll probably look just as funny twenty years from now, in what we call our "Modern" clothes. Only thing that won't change in the picture is that mellow, wholesome glass of beer.

From where I sit, tolerance that lets us wear sensible, decent clothes— to give us sun and air and freedom—will keep that wholesome glass of beer a part of the American tradition.

Freeze Fruits to Get Summer Treats All Year

Frozen berry purees over ice cream make tasty sundaes in winter or summer.

BERRIES make mighty tempting summer desserts—and just as tempting winter ones. For by freezing the finely flavored berries you can have summer treats the year around, writes Donald K. Tressler in Capper's Farmer, a leading magazine.

"To preserve the good taste that fresh berries have," he points out, "one should allow them to fully ripen on the bush, and handle them gently in preparing them for the freezer. Avoid extra handling in washing by placing them in a colander or basket with small openings and swish it through water containing ice until berries are clean. The ice water keeps the berries firm and shapely, prevents bleeding and waterlogging of the fruit.

"When several pounds of berries are washed, stemmed or capped, you are ready to mix them with sugar or cover them with sirup—depending on your preference and whether or not you want to use the frozen berries for dessert sauces.

"In filling containers for the freezer, allow ¾ inch space at the top of each one for expansion during freezing. Follow the manufacturer's instructions for closing or sealing various types of containers.

"Berries or any fruit covered with sirup tend to rise to the top. To keep them in the sirup, crush a piece of wax paper and place it between the fruit and the lid of the freezing container.

F. T. FeilRt. 2, Joliet, 1 Mile North of
New Lenox on Cedar RoadA Statement To Our Customers About Resale*PRICES of PRODUCTS*Built by International Harvester Company

Here at Harvester we are concerned over the fact that a growing number of our products are appearing on the resale market at greatly inflated prices.

As manufacturers, we try to produce at the lowest possible cost. We cannot set the prices at which our products—tractors, motor trucks, farm implements, refrigeration, and industrial power equipment—are sold. We can and do suggest list prices which the great majority of our dealers adopt as their retail prices.

$20,000,000 Price Reduction

Our basic price policy was publicly stated in March, 1947, when we announced price reductions at the rate of approximately $20,000,000 per year on our products. At that time, Fowler McCormick, Chairman of the Board, said: "ANY PRICE IS TOO HIGH IF IT CAN BE REDUCED."

Practically all of our dealers cooperated with this policy and passed on the savings to their customers.

The objective of the price reductions was to make it possible for customers to buy our products, which they need so badly, at lower prices. Naturally, this purpose is defeated when our products are sold by anybody at inflated prices.

IH Production at All-Time Peak

Inflated prices are caused by the difference between supply and demand. To increase supply, we now have the greatest number of employees in history on our payrolls—almost 90,000 in the United States, as against about 60,000 prewar. Large new plants are getting into production in Louisville, Evansville, and Melrose Park. A fourth will soon be in operation in Memphis. The men and women now employed are turning out the greatest quantities of IH products of all kinds that we have ever made. These are also the finest products we have ever made, and recognition of that fact is an important contributing factor to the demand for them.

Distribution to Dealers

But even record-breaking production is not sufficient to give your dealer—and other IH dealers—enough products to meet today's demand. We have tried to make the fairest possible geographical allocation of our products so that every dealer would get a fair share, and we know that dealers, in most cases, have tried earnestly to make the fairest possible distribution to their customers.

But we also know that many of our products—far too many—are being resold at inflated prices. The public criticism and resentment of these resales are of real concern to us, as we know they must be to our dealers, because such reactions endanger the good will of both the dealer and the Company in any community.

Distribution to Customers

Experience shows that many IH new products are being resold by users who decide they can continue to make out with their old equipment after they have had an inflated offer for their new equipment. To eliminate this, many dealers are taking measures to be sure that equipment purchased is for their customers' own use and is not to be resold.

Nearly all IH dealers, we believe, are now using the basis of PRESENT NEED as their primary guide for the sale of scarce products. The customer whose need is real and urgent is not likely to be resold.

What Price Should You Pay?

While it may take a little more time to get delivery, we urge our customers to consider all of the factors mentioned here, before paying more than the list price for any IH product. Any IH dealer or branch can furnish the suggested list price for any IH product.

We know that the overwhelming majority of IH dealers are as much opposed to inflated prices as we are. In the public interest, we have already asked their cooperation—and are now asking the cooperation of customers—in correcting this situation.

FRANKFORT

By Mrs. Frank J. Kohlhaugen

Miss Arlene Weltendorf is spending her vacation with friends in Milwaukee, Wis. She has been there for the past three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bettenhausen of Orland spent Sunday with Mrs. Mary Bettenhausen and family.

Janet Bauch, who has been a patient with a fractured leg at Silver Cross hospital, was brought home Tuesday.

Art Bauch returned home Sunday from a two weeks' motor trip to Pensacola, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Oetter spent Sunday evening with his sister, Mrs. Walter Jarchow, and Mr. Jarchow, at New Lenox.

At a July meeting of the Green Garden Home Bureau unit, held in the home of Mrs. Earl Smith, Mrs. Edwin Dralle was reelected president of the unit for the ensuing year, Mrs. Siegfried Beckmann was named vice-president, while Mrs. Gilbert Voss will be secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Michael Narvid was enrolled as a new member. The major lesson "Floor coverings," was presented by Mrs. Roland Woodcock and daughter Marian, while the minor lesson, on "cuts and bruises," was given by Mrs. Lawrence Werner. A health check-up was conducted by Mrs. Earl Bettenhausen.

Sunday guests at the Adam Heuser home were their children, Warren and Janette of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ashley and son Gardner and family of Boston, Mass., since Warren was having a birthday on Monday, a sumptuous dinner was served in his honor, which was enjoyed by all.

The Bauch family reunion was held at Highland park, Joliet, Sunday, July 27; approximately 50 were present. A potluck dinner was served at 12:30, after which a short business meeting was held. Officers were elected as follows for the coming year: President, Harry Miller, secretary and treasurer, Arline Heuser; committee on food, Elsie Clelland and Naomi Schroth; games committee, Ralph Heuser and Harold Schroth. Oldest person present was Andrew Schroth, the youngest was Tommy Heuser, son of Ralph Heuser. The afternoon was spent with races and various games and visiting. Guests present came from New Lenox, Chicago, Joliet, Green Garden, and Frankfort.

John Bauch is a patient in Silver Cross hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rehberg of Corona, Calif., will return to Frankfort, where they have purchased some property from Henry Mark. They are planning to build themselves a home. They left for California several years ago because of ill health; he has fully recovered. He longed to be back and resume his former work as painter. We all welcome him back. The family is expected within a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jeffries and daughter Ann of Ivanhoe, were dinner guests of the Frank Jeffries last Sunday. Doris Ann recently graduated from a nurses' school in Chicago and is now awaiting her state examination. She is spending a short vacation with her grandparents here.

WANTS HOMES

We have cash buyers waiting for anyone wishing to sell property. Kindly phone our office for one of our special agents to call. We have sold millions of dollars worth of property on the South and Southwest sides. I specialize in suburban homes. I don't fool around, the minute your home is listed with me for sale I get ready to advertise in the Chicago Newspapers and seven salesmen start to work on it. They start calling on clients who have been out to my office and told us just what they would be interested in I send a copy of the paper to each owner where my advertisement appears. In this way you are sure your property has been advertised. A great many times the property is sold before we have a chance to advertise. When a deal is pending we hold off our advertisement a few days as each salesman has many cash buyers to get in touch with immediately. I demand action from my Salesmen and if the house is not sold within a reasonable time it is advertised again and the Salesmen are instructed to double their efforts. If you price your property at a fair price and give it to me for sale I can assure you that you will get quick action.

44 ways

To get "Something for Nothing"

The railroads have received 44 "rules" demands from the leaders of the operating unions . . . representing engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen and switchmen. They say they are seeking only changes in working conditions—NOT a wage increase.

More Money For Less Work

But what kind of rules are being asked for? Twenty-eight of them would compel railroads to pay more money for the same, or less work; 7 would require additional and unnecessary men to do the same work; the rest would bring about changes in operating practices at increased cost.

For Instance:

The Union leaders demand additional train and engine crews on Diesel-powered trains—one full crew for every power unit in the locomotive. A freight train hauled by a 4-unit Diesel would have to carry 4 engineers, 4 firemen, 4 conductors, and at least 8 brakemen, or a total of 20 men instead of 5.

"Made Work"—Sheer Waste

The Union leaders demand that full-length freight trains be cut to about half their length, even though such trains are most efficient for low-cost service to you. This rule would call for twice as many locomotives, would double the number of trains, and make accidents more likely.

Additional equipment, yards, and other facilities required to take care of these short trains would cost hundreds of millions. What the Union leaders really want is to make more jobs.

The Union leaders demand that when a crew in one class of service perform incidental service of another class, they will be paid not less than a day's pay for each class, even though all service is performed as a part of the same day's work. The crew would get at least two days' pay for one day's work.

The Union leaders demand that the present basic day for passenger conductors and trainmen be reduced from 150 to 100 miles, which would have the effect of increasing their pay 50%. Such a run often takes only two or three hours!

You Can't Afford This Waste

Demands like these are against the interests of the whole American people, who depend on railroad service for nearly everything they eat, wear and use.

These rules would cost A BILLION DOLLARS annually—a gigantic waste which neither the railroads nor the country can afford.

Railroad workers are good citizens and good employees, with pride in their calling. Their record during the war was outstanding. We do not believe they fully understand the "featherbed" rules which the Union leaders are demanding. We do not believe they understand the harmful results which these rules would have to the railroad industry, to the millions of men and women dependent on railroads for their livelihood, and to the shipping and consuming public.

The great strength of America is in production—an honest day's work for an honest day's pay.

For only through greater production can we hope to stop the steady upward surge of living costs.

Surely, if ever there was a time in our history when we needed to work, not waste, this is it.

We are publishing this and other advertisements to talk with you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

Farm-To-Highway Road Program

Continuation of the farm-to-highway road resurfacing program started two years ago has been assured by the recent appropriation of $15,000,000 by the Illinois legislature for that purpose. The new appropriation covers the years 1948-9 and will be used on Illinois' 75,500 miles of township and road district roads. The first 15 million dollar appropriation for 1946-7, plus local road and bridge money, made it possible to resurface hundreds of miles of farm-to-highway roads.
